

CLAIM

What is claimed is:

1. An optical fiber light-transmissive structure disposed at any appropriate position of an optical fiber cord, and being processed by rolling for 5 producing sophisticated changes at refracting planes at an interior of the optical fiber cord, thereby forming a light-emitting segment for light beams entering an input end of the optical fiber cord to be transmitted via the light-emitting segment.